- Small detail brush (Opt.)
(or your favorite brushes)
- *I also use the legend or the dream catcher (from cheap joes) when I need a brush that holds more water. Have been using the DaVinci Maestro #12 too, for that purpose.

Other Supplies:

- Masking Fluid
- 9B pencil and Kneadable eraser
- Spray bottle
- Plastic tub (for water) and paper towels
- Mr. Clean magic eraser (the original)
- I paint at a slight slant on easel and board (for workshops I usually just bring a piece of foam core, and a shoe box.) Whatever you have will work.

Bring photos to paint from (Come with drawings done, as I like to dive right in, and focus on painting!) Everything from people (I don't consider myself a portrait painter, besides faces, think about the figure from the back, and slight profiles too) birds and animals. Feel free to paint flowers, stillifes, or whatever you love. I can help. The lessons will be more about design, clean color, color mixing, values, lost and found edges, etc., than it will be about painting an exact subject so feel free to paint your passion.
